

Stuston Village – a unique position in the world:

This small “exhibition” is a resume of why the village is where and what it is, how we got here and a few events along the way.

Thank you to all the contributors who have generously provided insights into the history of the village, the people, places and images of historic Stuston, many of which I am unable to show here due to lack of space.

I should also mention my many sources of information and references, in no particular order as below:

- Wikipedia
- Suffolk Heritage Explorer
- National Library of Scotland (for historical Ordnance Survey maps)
- Magic Maps (Multi Agency Geographic Information for the Countryside)
- Diss and District Neighbourhood Plan.
- Ipswich Museum
- Hidden East Anglia
